

We Want What's Ours

Learning from South Africa's Land
Restitution Program

Oxford University Press, 2014

by Bernadette Atuahene

Professor of Law, IIT Chicago-Kent College of Law
CEO, Land Solutions International

On June 30, 2014, President Zuma announced the re-opening of the land claims process. In the next round, South Africa must build on the successes and learn from the mistakes of the first round of restitution. Professor Bernadette Atuahene's new book, We Want What's Ours: Learning from South Africa's Land Restitution Program (Oxford University Press, 2014), is based on interviews that she conducted with over 150 South Africans who were forcibly removed from urban areas, and who received compensation through the land restitution program. The book provides an unbiased, bottom-up evaluation of the program's successes and failures.

Highlights: Free book to all attendees who RSVP to asteine2@kentlaw.iit.edu • Presentation by author • Panel discussion
Opportunity to give input on round two of restitution in small breakout groups • Breakfast and lunch served

University of the Witwatersrand

Date: Monday, 25 August 2014

Time: 9:00 to 13:00

Location: Chalsty Auditorium, School of Law
Braamfontein Campus West,
University of the Witwatersrand
Johannesburg, South Africa

University of KwaZulu-Natal

Date: Tuesday, 2 September 2014

Time: 9:00 to 13:00

Location: Senate Chambers
Westville Campus, University of KwaZulu-Natal
Durban, South Africa

